

2010 TPO NETWORK AWARDS

EXCELLENCE IN EXPORT DEVELOPMENT INITIATIVES

APPLICATION FORM AND GUIDELINES

TPO NETWORK AWARDS

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of the Trade Promotion Organization (TPO) Network Awards is to recognize institutional excellence and encourage the sharing of best practices among national export promotion agencies.

The processes and procedures of TPOs, classified according to the economic development status of the countries where their national headquarters are located, are judged against certain criteria. An Adjudicating Panel of distinguished TPO practitioners, including a senior representative from each TPO award winner of the previous round, reviews the submissions. The panel members, based on their experience and knowledge, rate the applications according to an evaluation metric to select the winners. The award winners are announced at the TPO Network World Conference, the biennial meeting where TPOs gather together to share experiences and discuss trade related issues.

One of the most significant challenges facing TPOs is to demonstrate value for money to their stakeholders. This means they must measure, record and report the outcomes and impact of their trade support activities. Because outcomes are often intangible and sometimes long term, TPOs tend to report to their stakeholders primarily on the efficiency of their operations. They are often unable to describe their effectiveness and show the impact of their activities.

The 2010 TPO Network Awards – Excellence in Export Development Initiatives - are designed to recognize, share and learn how to measure, deliver and demonstrate value for money.

2010 AWARDS MODEL

In 2009 ITC developed a comprehensive, integrated model of the activities of Trade Support Institutions (TSIs) aimed to help them to overcome these challenges. Starting this year, the International Trade Centre (ITC) is applying this structure to the design of the TPO Network Awards.

The initiatives of TSIs are classified into three broad categories:

- Export promotion initiatives: activities aimed at generating sustainable exports in a relatively short term;
- Export development initiatives: activities aimed at building the capacities of exporting enterprises in the medium and longer term;
- Corporate social responsibility initiatives: activities aimed at raising awareness on issues of general interest and contribute to the public good, for example, issues such as discrimination, environment etc.

The 2010 TPO Network Awards focus on outstanding performance of the TPOs processes and practices in providing Excellence in Export Development Initiatives. A key challenge faced by exporting SMEs is competing effectively in international markets. Export development initiatives are key to building the capacities of clients to become sustainable and internationally competitive businesses.

The structure of the integrated model allows for the TPO Network Awards categories to be expanded recognizing excellence in all areas of the TPOs' operations. However, the 2010 Awards will focus on only one of the three broad categories described above. The 2010 TPO Network Awards is also aligned to the theme of the 2010 TPO Network World Conference. This year's theme has been selected to address the challenges faced by TPOs in measuring, recording and reporting value for money. The conference specifically aims to share practices on performance measurement.

TPO NETWORK AWARDS

TPOs measure the success of their export development initiatives through the positive changes experienced by their clients. Establishing and applying appropriate processes allows TPOs to measure such changes and the requisite outcomes.

The 2010 TPO Network Awards aim to identify and recognize those processes that have successfully contributed to strengthening the competitiveness of exporting enterprises or have made a significant and positive change towards reaching this objective.

Applicants for the 2010 TPO Network Awards will be asked to describe one specific export development initiative which illustrates how an individual or group of SMEs were assisted in strengthening their competitiveness and, as a result entered or re-entered the global market as strong competitors.

PART 3: GUIDELINES FOR CREATING YOUR SUBMISSION

The 2010 TPO Network Awards aim to recognize outstanding performance in the use of TPO processes and practices.

In line with the theme of the 2010 TPO Network World Conference, this year's awards focus on measuring, recording and reporting the effectiveness of export development initiatives demonstrating value for money. The objective of these types of initiatives is to build the export competitiveness of enterprises. While recognising that some organisations offer mainly export promotion initiatives, many such initiatives also include activities aimed at developing the export capacities of enterprises. Lobbying and advocacy initiatives also play a crucial role in the development of countries' exports. These development initiatives that supplement promotional activities will also be accepted within the definition of export development initiatives for the purposes of the TPO Network Awards.

The applicant is invited to select one export development initiative, offered in response to an identified need within the past two years and to highlight its achievement in the effective and efficient use of the relevant processes.

Beginning with the overview of the initiative (page 8) and finishing with the effectiveness of the initiative, the applicant is requested to complete all areas described in Part 3 of these application guidelines (pages 8-10).

The Adjudicating Panel will look for exceptional performance in the use of innovative systems and procedures in the following key areas:

- A. DETERMINING THE NEED FOR THE INITIATIVE (Page 8);
- B. PERFORMANCE MONITORING OF THE INITIATIVE (Page 9);
- C. THE ASSESSED EFFECTIVENESS OF THE INITIATIVE (Page 9).

When selecting the export development initiative for submission, the applicant should consider the following:

- An initiative that aims to build the effective export competitiveness of SMEs;
- An initiative that contributes to broader changes which lead to sustained export competitiveness such as: raised awareness, attitude change and/or changes in managerial practices.

The submission must include a brief executive summary of one page or less, supporting documents and testimonials from clients confirming the outcome and impact claimed.

OVERVIEW OF THE INITIATIVE

Please name the export development initiative for which you seek an award and provide an overall description of the initiative in order to provide a context for the Adjudicating Panel to make their assessment. Your overview should provide brief answers to the following questions:

1. Aim of the initiative: Why did you launch the initiative? What was its purpose?
2. Features of the initiative: What are the main and distinguishing features concerning its scope, nature (training, consulting counselling) and level of sophistication, etc.?
3. The specific export development objectives: What specifically did you want to change? That is, what does the initiative expect to achieve? For example: creating awareness, attitude change, changing a specific managerial behaviour, improving competitiveness, sustaining competitiveness, sustainability of exports, or increasing exports.
4. Alignment to the strategy of the TPO: What is the overall strategy of your TPO? How does the specific initiative fit in with this strategy?
5. Target clientele of the initiative: What are the characteristics of the target clientele (user profile, size)? What prompted you to select this target group for the initiative? How were they identified, surveyed, and reached?
6. Procedures used for the design, development and delivery of the initiative: Why was the initiative designed and developed the way it was (the aim, target clientele, accessibility, cost, etc)? How does this design expect to achieve the objectives sought? How is the initiative delivered, for example on/off line, one on one counselling, workshops, etc.?

A. DETERMINING THE NEED/DEMAND FOR THE INITIATIVE

Please describe the processes you used to determine the “needs and wants” of your clientele. This description should provide good reason for the export development initiative to be offered. The Adjudicating Panel will consider answers to the following questions:

- Competitive or complementary initiatives: What processes did you use to gather information on existing initiatives available in both the public and private sector?
- Market usage and client satisfaction: What processes did you use to assess the use and satisfaction of the initiatives available in the market for the same clientele?
- Need/demand assessment: What processes did you use to identify the needs of the target clientele that were not being fully met by existing initiatives? What processes did you use to verify the demand for the initiative?

NOTE: Scoring for this section of your application will be done on the basis of:

- The depth and clarity of the description of the process demonstrating that it is innovative and well designed;
- How the results of the process were used to identify an unmet need and want of the target clientele;

- Whether the process is used systematically and periodically to verify and ensure that the initiative continues to meet the specified need over time.

A note on innovation: Innovation will be assessed in terms of what is new about the process and if the process achieves its purpose, for example, its effectiveness to achieve what it was designed to accomplish.

The panel will consider what, specifically, is different about the process or procedure compared to how other TPOs conduct the same activity as well as how your TPO has introduced changes in its existing activities. When considering the innovativeness of the process, you are also encouraged to demonstrate its efficiency.

B. PERFORMANCE MONITORING OF THE INITIATIVE

Export development initiatives are designed to strengthen the skills and knowledge of SMEs to manage and run their businesses effectively and efficiently to improve their competitiveness. A TPO must know whether the initiative is working, which requires a monitoring process that goes beyond assessing clients' satisfaction. An effective monitoring system identifies and measures the outcomes and impact of the initiative. It also provides sufficient information on what is and is not working to enable the TPO to improve the design and delivery of the initiative to achieve the expected objectives.

The Adjudicating Panel will consider the answers to the following questions:

- Monitoring the outcomes and impact: What processes, methods and tools did you use for measuring the changes in awareness, attitudes and specific managerial behaviours vis-à-vis to the objectives of the initiative?
- Competitiveness: What processes did you use for measuring the changes in the competitiveness of the beneficiaries? For example "more and more profitable exports with more favourable negotiated deals" or the sustainability of their competitiveness.
- Confirmation: What processes did you use to record and analyze the data collected and to evaluate whether the changes observed align with the expected results?
- Corrective Action: How did you use the results of the analyses to review and refine the initiative to optimize its results and impact?

NOTE: Answers to the questions above describe various processes. Scoring for this process will be done on the basis of:

- The depth and clarity of the description of the process demonstrating that it is innovative and well designed;
- How well the process provided useful information that could be used to improve effectiveness;
- Whether this process is used systematically and periodically to verify and ensure the initiative continues to meet the specified need over time.

C. EFFECTIVENESS OF THE INITIATIVE

Export development initiatives aim to build the effective export competitiveness of SMEs or contribute to changes in attitude and/or managerial practices. Please provide evidence that shows the relevance of the change(s) that took place and, if possible the degree of the change(s) that took place due to the initiative.

Please note that the applicant should provide specific evidence of the following as appropriate to the objectives of the initiative.

The increased competitiveness of the client companies as demonstrated by:

- The client enterprises negotiated better deals with their buyers to export, or export more, and more profitably by competing or by finding new markets where they are the most competitive player;
- The client enterprises successfully used features of their exports other than price – such as - quality, timing, physical attributes (product specifications, colour material, shape size, etc) value added and quantity to win buyers over;
- The client enterprises improved their profit margins.

The relevance and degree of change that took place concerning:

- The changed managerial practices;
- The changed attitudes;
- The changed awareness.

NOTE: Scoring for the above is on the basis of the initiative and not the process. Assessment will be on the basis of:

- The evidence that the export development initiative helped the clients to become more competitive on the market;
- The evidence that the export development initiative significantly contributed to changes in the behaviour, awareness, and attitude change and/or management practices required to build export competitiveness.

If you find that other measures of effectiveness are more appropriate to your initiative please provide any other evidence that demonstrates the effectiveness of your initiative.

This is the end of the application guidelines. Please read the instructions on the overleaf carefully before submitting your application to ITC.
