

TRADE AND INVESTMENT ECOSYSTEMS

DELIVERING FOR GROWTH PARIS 25/26-10-18

25-26 OCTOBER, PARIS, PIERRE MENDES FRANCE CONFERENCE CENTRE, BERCY

Trade and Investment Ecosystems: Delivering For Growth

This is not a time for business as usual. With trade facing strong headwinds and with the shared global commitment to achieve the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals by 2030, there is a need to foster approaches that can deliver future growth and prosperity at scale. The role of trade and investment promotion organizations (TIPOs), to ensure that trade contributes to inclusive and sustainable growth, is aligned to these development goals. In response to these shifts and to accelerate results for businesses, TIPOs are therefore harnessing ecosystems of business support to offer innovative, seamless and integrated solutions.

At the 2018 World Trade Promotion Organization Conference, we will focus on how an ecosystem approach could add value for small businesses and the implications of this approach for the future direction of TIPOs. This includes the emerging role of a TIPO to be a catalyst for cooperation among actors, providing integrated services that improve the competitiveness of small to medium sized enterprises (SMEs), and supporting inclusive growth. We will consider how rapid changes in technology are altering the actors, linkages and platforms that make up these ecosystems. We will also reflect on how to measure the work of institutions including reporting on broader socio-economic impact.

The conference uses a format of PROVOQUER (inspiring with big ideas), PARTAGER (sharing real life examples) PRATIQUER (tips and tools for action), and covers four sub topics:

- Ambitious goals in a rapidly changing world
- Ecosystems for reach, scale, flexibility, innovation, and efficiency
- Delivering with excellence using new technologies
- Demonstrating and driving impact with credible measurement and reporting

KEYNOTE SPEECH: Ambitious goals in a rapidly changing world: Agenda 2030

- The Sustainable Development Goals are relevant, important, and an inspirational connecting force, with a tight deadline.
- The goals align with the work of TIPOs to create inclusive growth, and TIPOs play a lead role in realizing these ambitions.
- To reach these goals, new methods, new partners and new platforms are necessary to support SMEs in the next decade.

PLENARY SESSION: Ecosystems for reach, scale, flexibility, innovation, and efficiency

TIPO representatives and experts will consider what ecosystems mean in the context of trade and investment and share examples of an ecosystem approach. The session begins with three examples of ecosystems of business support followed by a moderated panel session.

Fast pitch: Three-minute presentations of three TIPO ecosystems at work.

PANEL SESSION: Food ecosystems, from production to consumption

- How can an ecosystem approach support businesses to produce food efficiently, market and promote products effectively, deliver quality food to consumers, and ensure prompt payment?
- How do the actors at each step of the international food value chains complement and support each other for business success?

- 12:30 - 14:00 Lunch and networking

- 14:00 - 16:00 PARALLEL SESSIONS

Join the workshop on 'Leveraging and navigating ecosystems' or attend the panel session on 'Ecosystems for skills, innovation and entrepreneurship'.

WORKSHOP: Leveraging and navigating ecosystems

14:00 - 16:00

In smaller, facilitated workshop groups, participants will use case studies to map, navigate and leverage ecosystems. The approach will help participants respond to questions such as:

- What is the experience of a small business seeking to innovate, grow and internationalize?

PANEL SESSION:

Ecosystems for skills, innovation and entrepreneurship

14:15 - 15:45

In a rapidly changing world, TIPOs need to support innovation and entrepreneurship to build a pipeline of future export champions. Panellists will explore the complexities involved in building skills for the future and in enabling entrepreneurs to be generators of economic development.

- What are the business constraints and who are the actors that could be part of the solution?
 - What might an ideal and comprehensive service offering look like, from the perspective of the business?
 - What linkages exist already between potential actors, and how effective are they?
 - How could value be created, sustained, monetized, and measured?
 - What is the importance of data and information management, and privacy protocols in this context?
 - How can TIPOs maximise trust and connectedness in the system?
- What challenges are entrepreneurs facing in different countries; is an ecosystem response suitable to mitigate these challenges?
 - What is the role of the TIPO in nurturing ecosystems for innovation and entrepreneurship?
 - How are trade promotion, investment promotion and training institutions working together to build the skills needed for future success?
 - What additional tools and solutions do TIPOs need to support innovative businesses that are "born global"?
