YEP - TRADE FOR YOUTH EMPLOYMENT

The Gambia's economy is built on agriculture and tourism, two sectors that have untapped potential for value addition and employment. For a small country with limited local markets such as The Gambia, trade can provide a powerful engine for socio-economic development and job creation. By improving the employability of youth and helping young entrepreneurs to tap into the opportunities of the service economy, Youth Empowerment Project (YEP) supports the long-term economic competitiveness and well-being in the Gambia.

Irregular migration to Europe – referred to as ‘taking the backway’ – represents a challenge for Gambian society and economy and puts the country’s citizens at risk. To stem the current migration trend, it is crucial to step up job creation and create more meaningful income opportunities at home. Increasing the income opportunities available for youth, especially potential and returning migrants, is key for the future growth of the Gambian economy and inclusiveness of the society.

SCOPE OF THE YOUTH EMPOWERMENT PROJECT

YEP takes a market-led approach and sets out to strengthen existing youth development systems, structures and services to create employment opportunities. It aims to scale up skills among youth in the workforce in response to market demands.

Improved employability and self-employment opportunities

To tackle the skills gap among Gambian youth and to help improve their employment and self-employment prospects, existing technical and vocational skills programmes in selected priority sectors are strengthened to better match the needs of businesses.

YEP builds partnership with industry associations and training institutions and assist in the development and management of their programmes. Improving the effectiveness of learning is increased by adopting accessible and flexible learning models and tools.

The project encourages entrepreneurship among youth through business skills training and support programmes. Targeted business support services, help improve the performance and growth of youth-owned businesses.

Employment opportunities along selected value chains

By supporting a move from subsistence agriculture towards more productive systems and value-addition, YEP provides smallholders with increased opportunities for value addition, efficiency and quality, which in turn translate into more attractive and better-paid jobs.

Enabling value addition in the agri-sector and empowering it as a vehicle for economic growth has a knock-on effect on related sectors, potentially multiplying the employment opportunities. The aim is to achieve development of local services around agri-businesses such as packaging, logistics, mechanical repairs, web design, IT services and communications.

YEP also supports sectors such as IT, tourism and fashion that offer opportunities to youth leaving the rural areas in search of non-agricultural jobs. Through backward linkages these sectors are enabled to connect the rural producer communities to new markets.
